TWO CHANGES IN YALE TEAM BY TAD JONES

New Haven, Oct. 4.—Head coach Tad Jones yesterday made two changes in the Yale rush line by placing Moseley at right end and Galt at right guard. The changes came about as a result of the weak play displayed by the ends in the game against Carnegie last Saturday as well as the poor straight guard play. Moseley got into several games at end last year, held down a guard position for the freshmen last season. Captain Black, who suffers a sprained ankle, did not get into yesterday's practice.

Yesterday's drill was given over to fundamentals rather than scrimmaging and over an hour was spent in this department of play. But 20 minutes was devoted to scrimmaging, in which straight-away football featured. The forward pass loomed up as one of the features when Art Gates swept over the goal line for a score on a heave from Harry LeGore. The line plunging of Bob Bingham and Jacques for short gains stood out prominent in the day's play.

Maurice Smith was at center for the varsity and is expected to start in that position against Virginia here Saturday. Callahan and Vorys, two strong candidates for the position, are out with injuries.

PUT IN COOLIDGE TO HELP HARVARD AT END POSITION

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 4.—There was little action yesterday for the Harvard varsity football players to cross the scrub team's goal line three times. For the first time this season the scrub team was able to get a touchdown on its own account.

The black mark on the varsity's record was made by Jacobs, a scrub backfield man, who after catching a kick at mid-field raced fifty yards for the score. Flower got one of the varsity touchdowns on a fifteen yard end run, while Horween, recently placed on the substitute backfield list, made the two others at the end of long series of line plays. Robinson, the varsity quarterback, also kick a goal from placement.

The varsity line was changed by placing Charlie Coolidge, for two years a substitute end rush, on left wing, where Phinney had played for two weeks, while Lovell continued in Taylor's place, the regular tackle's leg still being in none too good shape.

GUNBOAT SMITH IS BEATEN BY COX IN HARD HITTING BOUT

New York, Oct. 4.—Gunboat Smith was treated to a little surprise last night when he met Joe Cox at the Broadway Sporting Club. Joe got up in time at the finish to nose the Gunner out at the wire. There wasn't much of brilliant fighting during the ten rounds, but Joe did manage to stand out because he did most of the leading and had the better of many close-range rallies.

The Gunner depended entirely on his familiar haymaker, but to his chagrin most of the well-meant wallops curled harmlessly about Joe's seventeen-inch neck. Gunboat, 'tis true, was surprised, but Cox had a few crowded 1-10 his young life, too.

At the end of the fifth round, Deputy Sheriff Jim Shortell crawled up into Cox's corner and handed him a subpoena in a suit to be brought by his former manager, Sport Sullivan. Willie Lewis, Joe's new manager, tucked the paper in his back pocket just as another sheriff's handy man galloped up with a second subpoena. This one related to a suit for divorce being instituted by the fighter's wife. From that time on Cox fought like a champion. He was bent on getting even with the world.

SCANDAL IN BASEBALL WORLD AS M'GRAW ACCUSES HIS PLAYERS OF QUITTING IN GAME WHICH GAVE BROOKLYN CLUB PENNANT; DODGERS' MANAGER INDIGNANT AT CHARGES AND MAKES DENIAL

New York, Oct. 4.—The glory of Brooklyn's victory in the National League race was temporarily obscured by the controversy in baseball circles over Manager McGraw's charge of the New York club in yesterday's game which decided the pennant. McGraw accused some of his men of disobeying orders and playing indifferently. No one outside of the inner circles of the club knew early today whether McGraw would manage his club in the game with Brooklyn this afternoon or whether he would make good his assertion when he left the field.

"I am through for the year," John B. Foster, secretary of the club, expressed the opinion that McGraw would finish out the season. Mr. Foster said it was impossible for the New York club to have deliberately lost the game with Brooklyn yesterday but said McGraw was thoroughly aroused by the indifference of his men. Most of those who heard McGraw's comment when he left the field in anger said that he did not accuse his players of dishonesty but of disregarding his signals and that he would not stand that kind of baseball.

Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn club, said: "It is ridiculous even to suggest that the New York's were not trying to beat us yesterday. It looked to me as if they were trying to pretty hard when they scored three runs against us in the first inning. At that time I felt like quitting the bench myself."

McGraw's assertions are very unsportsmanlike. He knows very well the Brooklyn's are superior to the New Yorks and when they came here Monday they encountered the best team in the league. It was only natural that the best team should win. The New Yorks did not play bad baseball yesterday but they were just out of a long winning streak that Boston crushed Saturday and they had not the stamina to win. They were simply outclassed and simply did not have to play listlessly so that we could win."

John Tener, president of the National league, said that after the Brooklyn's scored four runs in the third inning, the New York club "played sloppily and it was unfortunate that it happened in the game that decided the pennant. I knew nothing about the players disregarding McGraw's signals but if they did it was a violation of club discipline. They crumbled under the fast pace that made for them a new record in victories in the major leagues."

In being defeated yesterday the Giants were forced to be content with fourth place in the race. Whether or not this had anything to do with McGraw's statements could not be ascertained. Yet it is a fact that the Giants could finish third or better. McGraw is paid a bonus above his regular salary.

He was expecting his team to beat Boston in the race this season and no doubt felt the loss of the high rating as much as he did the money that would have been his had the club been able to keep up the winning streak long enough to pass the Braves. After the Giants had won 26 straight games it was the general opinion that in this series with Brooklyn the New York team would be invincible. Most critics believed that the Giants were infinitely superior to the present champions of the league. Because of this several wagers were made that the Dodgers would be defeated.

There is absolutely no suspicion that gambling and baseball were closely connected in this series, nor has there been found any one who cares to state that the contests were prearranged and a winner determined upon. However, the weakness of New York, following so closely upon the heels of the Brooklyn's, has brought up a debatable point.

Although Manager McGraw did not accuse his players of deliberately tossing the game away to Brooklyn, he made it known that the Giants did not play the game of which they were capable.

There has been bad feeling between the New York and Philadelphia clubs since 1908, when Coveleskie, the Giant Killer, spoiled the Giants' chances to get into the world's series. Several times during the few years there have been outbreaks between the Philadelphia club and the Giants, one of these being an attack on McGraw in 1912, which ended in a near riot, when the New York manager was struck by Adelle Brennan, one of the Philadelphia pitchers.

It would take no mind reader to understand that when it came to a question of the pennant's going to Philadelphia or Brooklyn, just where the interest of some of the New York players would rest. For many days baseball fans have been discussing the situation as well as the players and on account of the years of friendship between McGraw and Robinson, which dates back to the old Baltimore Orioles days, there has been much wild speculation and gossip that the New York club might favor the Brooklyn in the race.

There were many features of the Giants' play yesterday which were very unlike the tactics which the club has been pursuing during its recent outburst of great play. The Giants were careless on the bases and it was this feature of the game McGraw referred to when he accused his players of disregarding his signals.

Not once this season had any of the Giants' pitchers been so careless as to wind up their arms before delivering the ball when men were on the bases. When Perritt did this yesterday it gave advantage to the Brooklyn base runners. The Giants did not play to gether yesterday and there was more or less wrangling between the players. Early in the game it looked as if Herzog and Benton were going to have a serious engagement. When McGraw quit the team in the 11th and went to the clubhouse, Herzog, as field captain, was in charge, and the listless playing of the Giants continued to the end of the game.

The accusation of Manager McGraw has evidently stirred up a hornet's nest of trouble among the players. Last night they were to have a theatre party at the Rialto theatre, but none of them appeared.

NEW FOREIGN MINISTER OF CHINA IS OPPOSED

Peking, Oct. 4.—The House of Representatives has refused to ratify the appointment of Lu Chen Thiang as foreign minister, because of his monarchial leanings. Lu Chen Thiang was minister of foreign affairs in Yuan Shi Kai's cabinet during the monarchial movement.

SPECIAL SALE OF FERNS AND PALMS. JOHN RECK & SON

ball aggregations in the state will open the season next Sunday by playing the Jersey City A. A. at Savin Rock.

Local fans who don't have the price to see the world's series can see all the players, anyway. Just go down to the road station some night and watch the players on their way from Boston to Brooklyn.

They say Capt. Black is quite popular at Yale because of his rough and ready methods. The chubby leader was cutting and kicking his players all around the place in last Saturday's game. That's one way to shake the pepper box.

Those who have been complaining that the Red Sox have only two good outfielders should not overlook Chick Shorten. This youngster has alternated with Walker this season and on the western trip he did some timely hitting in critical games. Shorten gained his baseball education with Worcester in the old New England league. After he was taken by the Red Sox he was farmed to Providence where he did so well that he was recalled.

Jack Barry, Heinie Wagner and Manager Carrigan of the Red Sox will watch Brooklyn in the two remaining games to get an idea of the Dodgers' style so as to be prepared for them in the world's series. After being released by Hartford Wagner fell into a pretty soft job as scout for the Red Sox.

Watson Washburn, the Brooklyn tennis star, is still winning. He captured the championship of the West Side Tennis club in New York yesterday by beating Fred Bagges.

MISS BISHOP OF BROOKLAWN LOSES

Waverley, Mass., Oct. 4.—There was many an upset yesterday in the first round of match play over the Belmont Springs Country Club course in the national women's golf championship tournament. The Philadelphia players and those from the New York district breaking down the hopes not only of the best of the western competitors, but of the Boston stars as well.

Philadelphia has reason to be proud of its showing. Four of the sixteen first round winners came through and are likely to be in the going through both halves of the list. The sensation of the day on medal scoring was Mrs. W. A. Gavin of Taconic, who beat Miss Bishop of Brooklyn 4 and 3, with a card of 81 net, notwithstanding three stymies.

PHILLIES LOSE PENNANT WHEN BRAVES TAKE 2

LIVELY BOUTS ARRANGED FOR OPENING SHOW

Philadelphia, Oct. 4.—The Phillies lost their fight for the pennant yesterday afternoon when Boston trimmed them in a double header, while the Dodgers clinched the 1916 title by beating the Giants on Ebbets Field. The public admission puts the Moran men out of the pennant race. They are now two and a half games behind the Robins, and even if they won their two remaining games from Boston while the Dodgers drop two to McGraw's clan the Phillies could not supplant Brooklyn.

The Phils went to pieces in the closing innings of the second game just as they did in the first encounter, the score of the second game being 6 to 1 and that of the first game 6 to 3. It was a heart-breaking setback for the 15,000 fans who packed the stands and urged the Moran men on to another pennant.

Lefty Tyler and Erskine Mayer fought a pitchers' duel for seven innings in the second game, then Mayer was taken out to make way for a pinch hitter. Bender tried to pitch, but his effort was a flop. The remaining innings were ludicrous. The crowd quit in disgust. Hundreds went home, while the others who lingered jeered the team which they had followed and encouraged all through the long pennant season. Boston scored four runs off the Chief in the eighth and filled the bases again in the ninth, but this time the Phils managed to retire the Braves without a run.

The Phillies' lone tally was a home run clout by George Whitted, the plucky fielder, who limped through the game with a sprained ankle. Whitted's hard slam slipped through Chappelle as he leaned over the left field wall and dropped among the bleacherites for a circuit drive.

This lead was maintained until the sixth inning. Mayer fanned the first two Braves, and then Whitted drove a hit to right. The ball bounded double to left center. Blackburn bunted toward third. Byrne came in fast, but his throw to first was wild. Luderus knocked down the ball, but could not hold it, and Egan scored the winning run all the way from second. Tyler held the lead for the Braves during the remaining innings, but the efforts of Chief Bender to hold the Braves in check were the essence of futility.

The Phillies' hopes were given another jolt, in addition to losing the first game, when George Whitted joined Dave Bancroft on the injured list. While chasing Sherwood Magee's liner in the eventful seventh inning, Whitted stepped on a pop bottle in front of the bleacher wall and turned his ankle severely. George was helped to the clubhouse at the close of the inning by Mike Dee, the Phillies' trainer.

SENSATIONAL RACES AT DANBURY FAIR

Danbury, Oct. 4.—Rich Hall and Hazel Hall were extra heat winners of the opening-day's races yesterday afternoon. Rich Hall, driven by Dolan, coming through and winning the last three heats of the 2:24 pace after Rhoda Ashbourne, driven by Bruce, had taken the first two and Hazel Hall, with Murphy (not Thomas W.) in the sulky, finishing in front after the first heat of the 2:27 trot. Kadiska Penn, another of Bruce's stable, won the first heat of this race. Large fields faced the wire in both events, five horses being distanced in the first heat of the trotting event. Isotta won the running race in straight heats.

All arrangements have been completed for the opening boxing show of the season which will be held at the Casino next Monday night under the auspices of the Black Rock A. C. Matchmaker Sammy Hollis thinks he has secured a strong semi-final bout by matching Willie Condon of this city against Battling Kunz of South Norwalk. These boys will battle ten rounds at 135 pounds. Kunz is a hard hitter and so is Condon as the battle should be interesting. Condon is under the management of that experienced sportsman, Ducky Holmes, and the boy will probably figure in numerous bouts this season.

There will be a six round affair in which Harry Glenn of Baltimore and Young Nunc of New York will be the principals. The boxers will weigh 126. Although unknown to local fans these youngsters are said to be lively scrappers.

The star bout between Silent Martin and the Zulu Kid of New York was settled on Monday. Each in appearance before the biggest club in New York and so does the Zulu. They are the aggressive type assuring the fans there will be no stalling.

Terry Lee has been engaged as referee for the evening's bouts, Frank Brathwaite will be the announcing and Al Burdick will keep time.

BETTING ODDS FAVOR BOSTON TO WIN SERIES

Boston, Oct. 4.—Distribution of reserved seat tickets for the world's series baseball games in this city between the Brooklyn Nationals and the Boston Americans which will open Saturday at Fenway Park. Tickets of 27,000 seats available for reservation were covered by applications, officials of the local clubs said. Almost immediately after the receipt by mail this morning of the notices of allotments, several applicants appeared at the club offices at Fenway Park. Ticket distribution prior to the date of the opening game will be made from there, although the games will be played at Braves Field, the grounds of the local National League club.

To prevent the congestion which interfered with traffic in the vicinity of Braves Field last year, new arrangements by the police and club officials were made today. Sale of admission seats at $1 and at 50 cents each will be made from offices on the side of the grounds opposite the grandstand entrances, thus obviating the crush which kept many holders of reserved seats from the games last year. These new rates will be opened at 9 o'clock on the morning of the games, purchasers of tickets must move into the grounds at once and the gates will be closed as soon as the 15,000 seats are filled according to the plan.

Assurance that the Red Sox will be cheered on the foreign field by organized local supporters as the local world series contenders have been for years was given today by John M. Killeen, leader of the Royal Rooters. He reported that President Ebbetts of the Brooklyn club, had promised an adequate supply of tickets for the Boston party which will follow the fortunes of the team throughout the series.

First indications of the betting odds on the series were available today with Brooklyn definitely placed as the National League pennant winner. Wagers were offered here at odds of 10 to 7 on Boston. As yet it was said no Brooklyn money has appeared.
